

For what's more miserable then Discontent? Enter Duke Humfrey
 Ah Vnckle Humfrey, in thy face I see
 The Map of Honor, Truth, and Loyaltie;
 And yet, good Humfrey, is the houre to come,
 That ere I prou'd thee false, or fear'd thy faith.
 What lowring Starre now enioies thy estate?
 That these great Lords, and Margaret our Queene,
 Doe seeke subuersion of thy harmelesse Life;
 Thou neuer didst them wrong, nor no man wrong;
 And as the Butcher takes away the Calfe,
 And binds the Wretch, and beats it when it strays,
 Bearing it to the bloody Slaughter-house;
 Euen so remorselesse haue they borne him hence:
 And as the Damme runnes lowing vp and downe,
 Looking the way her harmelesse young one went,
 And can doe naught but wayle her Darlings losse;
 Euen so my selfe bewayles good Glosters case
 With sad vnhelpfull teares, and with dimm'd eyes;
 Looke after him, and cannot doe him good:
 So mightie are his vowed Enemies.
 His fortunes I will weepe, and twixt each groane,
 Say, who's a Traytor? Gloster he is none.

Queen. Free Lords:
 Cold Snow melts with the Sunnes hot Beames:
 Henry, my Lord, is cold in great Affaires,
 Too full of foolish pittie: and Glosters shew
 Beguiles him, as the mournfull Crocodile
 With sorrow snares relenting passengers;
 Or as the Snake, roll'd in a flowing Banke,
 With shining checker'd slough doth sting a Child,
 That for the beautie thinks it excellent.
 Beleeue me Lords, were none more wise then I,
 And yet herein I iudge mine owne Wit good;
 This Gloster should be quickly rid the World,
 To rid vs from the feare we haue of him.
Card. That he should dye, is worthie pollicie,
 But yet we want a Colour for his death:

Suff. But in my minde, that were no pollicie:
 The King will labour still to saue his Life,
 The Commons haply rise, to saue his Life;
 And yet we haue but triuiall argument,
 More then mistrust, that shewes him worthy death.

Yorke. So that by this, you would not haue him dye,
Suff. Ah Yorke, no man aliue, so faine as I,
Yorke. 'Tis Yorke that hath more reason for his death,
 But my Lord Cardinall, and you my Lord of Suffolke,
 Say as you thinke, and speake it from your Soules:
 Wer't not all one, an emptie Eagle were set,
 To guard the Chicken from a hungry Kite,
 As place Duke Humfrey for the Kings Protector?

Queen. So the poore Chicken should be sure of death.
Suff. Madame 'tis true: and wer't not madnesse then,
 To make the Fox suruey of the Fold?
 Who being accus'd a craftie Murtherer,
 His guilt should be but idly posted ouer,
 Because his purpose is not executed?
 No: let him dye, in that he is a Fox,
 By nature prou'd an Enemy to the Flock,
 Before his Chaps be stayn'd with Crimson blood,
 As Humfrey prou'd by Reason to my Liege,
 And doe not stand on Quillets how to slay him:
 Be it by Gynnes, by Snares, by Subletie,
 Sleeping, or Waking, 'tis no matter how,
 So he be dead: for that is good deceit,
 Which mates him first; that first intends deceit.

Queen. Thrice Noble Suffolke, 'tis resolutely spoke:
Suff. Not resolute, except so much were done,
 For things are often spoke, and seldome meant;
 But that my heart accordeth with my tongue,
 Seeing the deed is meritorious,
 And to preserue my Soueraigne from his Foe,
 Say but the word, and I will be his Priest.
Card. But I would haue him dead, my Lord of Suffolke,
 Ere you can take due Orders for a Priest:
 Say you consent, and censure well the deed,
 And Ile prouide his Executioner,
 I tender to the safetie of my Liege.
Suff. Here is my Hand, the deed is worthy doing.
Queen. And so say I.
Yorke. And I: and now we three haue spoke it,
 It skills not greatly who impugnes our doome.

Enter a Post.
Post. Great Lords, from Ireland am I come againe,
 To signifie, that Rebels there are vp,
 And put the Englishmen vnto the Sword.
 Send Succours (Lords) and stop the Rage betime,
 Before the Wound doe grow vncurable;
 For being Greene, there is great hope of helpe.

Card. A Breach that craues a quick expedient stoppe,
 What counsaile giue you in this weightie cause?
Yorke. That Somerset be sent as Regent thither:
 'Tis meet that luckie Ruler be employ'd,
 Witnesse the fortune he hath had in France.

Som. If Yorke, with all his farre-fet pollicie,
 Had bene the Regent there, in stead of me,
 He neuer would haue stay'd in France so long.
Yorke. No, not to lose it all, as thou hast done,
 I rather would haue lost my Life betimes,
 Then bring a burthen of dis-honour home,
 By staying there so long, till all were lost.
 Shew me one skarre, character'd on thy Skinne,
 Mens flesh prefer'd to whole, doe seldome winne.

Qu. Nay then, this sparke will prone a raging fire,
 If Wind and Euell be brought, to feed it with:
 No more, good Yorke; sweet Somerset be still.
 Thy fortune Yorke, hadst thou bene Regent there,
 Might happily haue prou'd farre worse then his.

Yorke. What, worse then naught? nay, then a shame take all.

Somerset. And in the number, thee, that wilt shame.

Card. My Lord of Yorke, trie what your fortune is:
 Th'vnciuill Kernes of Ireland are in Armes,
 And temper Clay with blood of Englishmen.
 To Ireland will you leade a Band of men,
 Collected choicely, from each Countie some,
 And trie your hap against the Irishmen?

Yorke. I will, my Lord, so please his Maiestie.
Suff. Why, our Authoritie is his consent,
 And what we doe establish, he confirms:

Then, Noble Yorke, take thou this Taske in hand,
 Whiles I take order for mine owne affaires.

Suff. A charge, Lord Yorke, that I will see perform'd.
 But now returne we to the false Duke Humfrey.

Card. No more of him: for I will deale with him,
 That henceforth he shall trouble vs no more:
 And so breake off the day is almost spent,
 Lord Suffolke, you and I must talke of that cunct.

Yorke. My

Yorke. My Lord of Suffolke, within foureteene dayes
 At Brittow I expect my Souldiers;
 For there Ile shippe them all for Ireland.
Suff. Ile see it truly done, my Lord of Yorke. Exeunt.

Manet Yorke.
Yorke. Now Yorke, or neuer, Steele thy fearfull thoughts,
 And change misdoubt to resolution;
 Be that thou hop'st to be, or what thou art;
 Refigne to death, it is not worth th'enioying:
 Let pale-fac't feare keepe with the meane-borne man,
 And finde no harbor in a Royall heart.

After the Spring-time shewes, comes thought on thought,
 And not a thought, but thinks on Dignitie.
 My Brayne, more busie then the laboring Spider,
 Weaues tedious Snares to trap mine Enemies.
 Well Nobles, well: 'tis politickely done,
 To send me packing with an Hoast of men:

I feare me, you but warme the starued Snake,
 Who cherisht in your breasts, will sting your hearts.
 'Twas men I lackt, and you will giue them me;
 I take it kindly: yet be well assur'd,
 You put sharpe Weapons in a mad-mans hands.

Whiles I in Ireland nourish a mightie Band,
 I will stirre vp in England some black Storme,
 Shall blowe ten thousand Soules to Heauen, or Hell:
 And this fell Tempest shall not cease to rage,
 Vntill the Golden Circuit on my Head,

Like to the glorious Sunnes transparent Beames,
 Doe calme the furie of this mad-bred Flawe.
 And for a minister of my intent,
 I haue seduc'd a head-strong Kentishman,
 John Cade of Ashford,

To make Commotion, as full well he can,
 Vnder the Title of Iohn Mortimer.
 In Ireland haue I seene this Stubborne Cade
 Oppose himselfe against a Troupe of Kernes,

And fought so long, till that his thighs with Darts
 Were almost like a sharpe-quill'd Porpentine:
 And in the end being rescued, I haue seene
 Him capre vpright, like a wilde Morisco,
 Shaking the bloody Darts, as he his Bells.

Full often, like a shag-hayr'd craftie Kerne,
 Hath he conuerst with the Enemy,
 And vndiscou'd, come to me againe,
 And giuen me notice of their Villanies.

This Deuill here shall be my substitute;
 For that Iohn Mortimer, which now is dead,
 In face, in gate, in speech he doth resemble.
 By this, I shall perceiue the Commons minde,
 How they affect the House and Clayme of Yorke.

Say he be taken, rackt, and tortured;
 I know, no paine they can inflict vpon him,
 Will make him say, I mou'd him to those Armes.
 Say that he thrise, as 'tis great like he will,
 Why then from Ireland come I with my strength,

And reape the Haruest which that Rascall sow'd.
 For Humfrey; being dead, as he shall be,
 And Henry put apart: the next for me. Exit.

Enter two or three running over the Stage, from the Murder of Duke Humfrey.
 1. Runne to my Lord of Suffolke: let him know
 We haue dispatcht the Duke, as he commanded;
 2. Oh, that it were to doe: what haue we done?
 Didst euer heare a man so penitent? Enter Suffolke.
 1. Here comes my Lord.

Suff. Now Sirs, haue you dispatcht this thing?
 1. I, my good Lord, hee's dead.
Suff. Why that's well said. Goe, get you to my House,
 I will reward you for this venturous deed:
 The King and all the Peeres are here at hand.
 Haue you layd faire the Bed? Is all things well,
 According as I gaue directions?
 1. 'Tis, my good Lord.
Suff. Away, be gone. Exeunt.

Sound Trumpets. Enter the King, the Queene, Cardinall, Suffolke, Somerset, with Attendants.

King. Goe call our Vnckle to our presenee straight:
 Say, we intend to try his Grace to day;
 If he be guiltie, as 'tis published.

Suff. Ile call him presently, my Noble Lord. Exit.
King. Lords take your places: and I pray you all
 Proceed no straiter gainst our Vnckle Gloster,
 Then from true euidence, of good esteeme;
 He be approu'd in practise culpable.

Queen. God forbid any Malice should preuaile,
 That faultlesse may condemne a Noble man:
 Pray God he may acquit him of suspicion.

King. I thanke thee Nell, these wordes content mee much.

Enter Suffolke.
 How now? why look'st thou pale? why tremblest thou?
 Where is our Vnckle? what's the matter, Suffolke?

Suff. Dead in his Bed, my Lord: Gloster is dead.

Queen. Marry God forbid.

Card. Gods secret Iudgement: I did dreame to Night,
 The Duke was dumbe, and could not speake a word.

King. How fares my Lord? Helpe Lords, the King is dead.

Som. Rere vp his Body, wring him by the Nose.

Qu. Runne, goe, helpe, helpe: Oh Henry ope thine eyes.

Suff. He doth reuiue againe, Madame be patient.

King. Oh Heauenly God.

Qu. How fares my gracious Lord?

Suff. Comfort my Soueraigne, gracious Henry comfort.

King. What, doth my Lord of Suffolke comfort me?
 Came he right now to sing a Rauens Note,
 Whose dismall tune bereft my Vitall powres:
 And thinks he, that the chirping of a Wren,
 By crying comfort from a hollow breast,
 Can chase away the first-conceiued sound?

Hide not thy poyson with such sugred words,
 Lay not thy hands on me: forbear I say,
 Their touch affrights me as a Serpents sting.
 Thou balefull Messenger, out of my sight:
 Vpon thy eye-balls, murderous Tyrannie
 Sits in grim Maieftie, to fright the World.

Looke not vpon me, for thine eyes are wounding;
 Yet doe not goe away: come Basiliske,
 And kill the innocent gazer with thy sight:
 For in the shade of death, I shall finde ioy;
 In life, but double death, now Gloster's dead.

Queen. Why do you rate my Lord of Suffolke thus?
 Although the Duke was enemy to him,
 Yet he most Christian-like laments his death:
 And for my selfe, Foe as he was to me,
 Might liquid teares, or heart-offending groanes,
 Or blood-consuming sighes recall his Life;
